Reviews Of the film "Beauty and the Beast".

The film and the Beast, very well shows how people used to live. At the beginning of the film, you can see old houses in which people lived before our time. The film tells the story of a girl named Belle, who loved to read and dreamed of different adventures. She did not want to marry the persistent and rude Gaston, but dreamed of seeing many countries and find true love. She did not want to burden herself with "women's" duties, because at that time, women were illiterate and were to housewives.

As mentioned earlier, Belle loved to read and dream. She was smart and beautiful. According to the story, Belle had a father who traveled to different villages and was a merchant. One day, he wandered into the Beast's castle and he captured him. Belle, having learned about this, frees her father in exchange for her captivity.

During her imprisonment, Belle gets to know the Beast and they being to fall in love. As they talk, we learn some historical facts and see how people used to live. After the beast finally falls in love with Belle, he lets her go and she goes to her father. The inhabitants of her village, having learned that she was with the beast, lock her up and go to the castle with pitchforks and torches to kill him. But Belle gets out and saves the beast, thus showing that she loves him. And a nice miracle happens, thanks to love, the beast becomes a handsome prince again. At the end of the story, everyone lives happily ever after and we see how the kings and queens lived.
